Welcome to Earth-Rah Crawford's Art Experience is a documentation of the artist's decade spanning exhibition and the introduction of a new approach to art. The 100 page book is filled with event photographs, artwork and commentary that reveal Crawford's four-part exhibition which began in 2004 and concluded in 2015. ABC News reported that "Rah has arrived on the scene and is helping to change the face of contemporary art." The New York Times described Crawford's art as "Buoyant" "Optimistic" and "Exuberant." ArtHistoryArchive.com includes Rah Crawford on a short list of 17 artists whose work epitomizes the Neo Pop art movement along with Keith Haring, Damien Hirst and Jeff Koons. As you know, I have been working with pen and ink for over 35 years, in which time I have created my own style. Combinations of the techniques that I developed myself, can be found in my other books. In this book I want to focus on pure pen-and-ink drawings. This book has the same structure as the previous ones. This structure enables you to follow step by step and in a simple and pleasant way, how I create my drawings. This time, my object is the human body. Rolando Peña is one of the most outstanding Latin American artists of the 20th and 21st centuries. His long and uninterrupted international career has been characterized by seeking innovation, dialoguing with the fundamental concepts of our time, and pioneering the use of technology in art. Welcome to My Art World is a book that reconciles the works, critical notes, and ideas that have led this master to be part of important collections around the world and win well-deserved recognition such as that of the Guggenheim Foundation and that of the International Association of Art Critics (AICA). His reading wraps us in a prolific, passionate, and unique experience of life and art. The book, which in itself is an outstanding piece of art and design, takes us through "the wonderful sixties" when he was part of the unprecedented avant-garde movement in New York at the time and collaborated with figures such as Andy Warhol. His ingenuity in transforming oil into a myth of contemporary art and establishing a prime political-ecological position that already announced the demands of this century. His links between art, science, and technology have led him to experiment with the most state-of-the-art ideas in physics. His legacy in art: turning life into a poetry of infinity and expanding the human imagination from the most intimate of love to the ends of the Universe. Landscape painting, also known as landscape art, is the depiction of natural scenery such as mountains, valleys, trees, rivers, and forests, especially where the main subject is a wide view-with its elements arranged into a coherent composition. Painting the landscape presents many opportunities for self-expression, as well as an opportunity to address some of the formal aspects of picture-making, and the chance to convey an impression of one's surroundings. For myself, landscape painting was initially a welcome break from the confinement of the literal description required with portraiture, which is among the types of paintings that I do. All Yesterdays is a book about the way we see dinosaurs and other prehistoric animals. Lavishly illustrated with over sixty original artworks, All Yesterdays aims to challenge our notions of how prehistoric animals looked and behaved. As a critical exploration of palaeontological art, All Yesterdays asks questions about what is probable, what is possible, and what is commonly ignored. Written by palaeozoologist Darren Naish, and palaeontological artists John Conway and C.M. Kosemen, All Yesterdays is scientifically rigorous and artistically imaginative in its approach to fossils of the past - and those of the future. Doodle and Zen Drawing Book Step-by-Step Tutorial on creating stunning drawings Welcome to Zen and Doodle Art. As you read through the pages and follow the instructions, you will learn how to draw the main part of the piece and how to fill it in. Don't worry if you've never drawn anything before. I will take you through it little steps at a time. You will start with very simple shapes and then we will do a couple of drawings that are a little bit harder, but through it all you will be taking small steps to learn how to do it. Take a deep breath. Everyone started somewhere, and this is your start. Don't rush. Take your time, work through the exercises, and even go back and re-read if you feel you have to. You're not being timed. Go at your own pace, and enjoy yourself as you see lines form shapes and patterns. Here is a preview of what you'll learn: What is Zen? What do I need? In the beginning... This report presents the findings from the final phase of the evaluation of the "Welcome to the North" (WTTN) public art programme, which has been undertaken by a team from Leeds Metropolitan University. The £4.5million Public Art programme has been implemented over the period 2006-09. The programme design stage involved the production of a report by BEAM (May, 2006) which set out a range of investment options for artworks at sites across the North of England. The successful delivery of the WTTN public art programme led to the funding of five physical public art installations and a virtual gateway artwork (The Wonderful North). Of the original five physical installations proposed, three have been installed and two are in the process of construction. Completed. Good luck! Interpreting the meaning of hospitality in an unwelcoming political moment Amid xenophobic challenges to America's core value of welcoming the tired and the poor, Irina Aristarkhova calls for new forms of hospitality in her engagement with the works of eight international artists. In this first monograph on hospitality in contemporary art, Aristarkhova employs a feminist perspective to critically explore the artworks of Ana Prvacki, Faith Wilding, Lee Mingwei, Kathy High, Mithu Sen, Pippa Bacca, Silvia Moro, and Ken Aptekar and ask who, how, and what determines who is worthy of our welcome. Spanning a diverse range of contemporary art practices, Arrested Welcome shows how artists challenge our existing notions of hospitality--culturally, philosophically, and politically. From the role of "microcourtesies" in social change to the portrayal of waiting as a feminist endeavor, Aristarkhova looks deeply into topics such as gender stereotypes of welcome, ways to reclaim civility, and the means by which guests (sometimes human, sometimes animal) push the limits of our hosting traditions. Blending a feminist analysis of hospitality with in-depth case studies on how contemporary artists stimulate personal reflection and political engagement, Aristarkhova initiates these important conversations at a critical time of national and international hospitality crises.
